Haedong Yonggungsa Temple

Haedong Yonggungsa Temple is a beautiful seaside Buddhist temple located in Busan, South Korea.

Unlike most temples in Korea, which are built in the mountains, Haedong Yonggungsa sits on the rocky coast with stunning views of the East Sea.

The temple was originally built in 1376 during the Goryeo Dynasty.

It is known for its peaceful atmosphere, scenic ocean backdrop, and statues such as the Haesu Gwaneum Daebul (Seawater Great Goddess Buddha).

Visitors often come to see the sunrise, especially during New Year's Day.

Busan Yacht Tour

The Haeundae Yacht Tour offers a luxurious and scenic experience along Busan's stunning coastline.

Departing from locations like The Bay 101, this tour provides panoramic views of iconic landmarks such as Haeundae Beach, Gwangalli Beach, and the Gwangan Bridge .

Gyeongbokgung Palace

Built in 1395, Gyeongbokgung Palace is the largest and most beautiful of the five grand palaces of the Joseon Dynasty. Known as the "Northern Palace" due to its location, it was damaged during the Imjin War (1592–1598) but restored in the 19th century. Notable features include the Gyeonghoeru Pavilion, Hyangwonjeong Pond, and Geunjeongjeon's stone markers. The National Palace Museum and the National Folk Museum are also located nearby.

Nanta [Non -Verbal Performance]

Nanta is a non -verbal South Korean performance blending comedy, traditional samul nori rhythms, and theatrical storytelling. Set in a kitchen, it follows four chefs preparing a wedding banquet under pressure, using kitchen tools as musical instruments. Since its 1997 debut, Nanta has gained global popularity for its high -energy, humorous, and universally engaging show.

DMZ TOUR

Nowhere is the tension between North and South Korea more palpable than in the no-man's-land known as the Korean Demilitarized Zone, or DMZ.

As a divided nation, only 2.5 miles (4 km) separate the North from the South at what is the most heavily armed border on earth.

The 150-mile (241 -km) zone has served as a buffer since the 1953 cease -fire agreement between the United Nations and North Korea that put the Korean War on hold.
